HORRIBLE.—A distressing tragedy was enacted yesterday, in one of our small taverns. A father had bet five dollars that his son, a mere lad, could drink three bottles of porter. The bet was taken by some unfeeling wretch, and the poison was poured out for the little boy. In obedience to the stern command of his father, he drank two bottles, but found it impossible to mish the third. He was now in an almost helpless state of intoxication, when his father, becoming enraged with his moneompliance with his wishes, seized the remaining one, and thrusting the neck of the bottle into the child's mouth, actually poured it down his throat. Is it not too horrible for contemplation? The father had won his five dollars, and now, both being wildly and frantically drunk they started for home, receiling and falling at every step. The poor lad cut himself frightfully. When they reached home, it was found necessary to send for a physician, who, for a while despaired of the recovery of the child. These are the facts as related to us. It is a long time since we have read of anything so revolting.

We gave an account yesterday of a horrid mur There is an improved feeling in the manufacturing districts. At Manchester a better inquiry has sprung up for goods and yarn, and a fair business would be done, if spinners and manufacturers

Roams, whom I hate as a politician as much as any one on earth. He was with us, encouraging and managing our affairs with a skill I thought he did not possess. He shone upon this battle-field in a better light than I ever saw him. He seemed to fight for glory, and combined it with duty; he stood caim and cheered the men when two rilemen were shot down on either side of him; and when it were shot down on either side of him; and when it BOSTON WATER WORKS.—More than three quarters of the exacastion for the Aqueduct, from Long Pond to Brookline, is completed; and the laying of the

The gate of the lock gave way on Sunday night and though no time was lost in repairing it, boats were unable to pass until between 3 and 4 o'clock yesterday, (Tuesday) afternoon. For the distance of half a mile on the west side of the lock, and for a mile and a half on the east side, the Canal was liberally lined with boats. Boatmen, drivers, horses, were all "brought up standing."

Allowing four persons to each of the 250 boats, there were at least 500 idle horses. As may well be conceived, the towpath presented an animated spectacle.
